Hi Ron,

Please provide an on-the-record statement for our forthcoming piece at Forbes where I am a contributor.

Question:

The last seven quarters of Oregon Office of Governor lobbying expenditure reports displayed at the Oregon Ethics Commission showed $0 in expenditures. Our open records request filed with the Office of Governor shows they spent approximately $165,488 in lobbying expenditures. Is the Office of Governor filing amended reports?

Any context or comment regarding the Office of Governor employer lobbying expenditure reports of the last seven quarters would be appreciated. The credibility of the information displayed on the website of the Oregon Ethics Commission is now questionable. Any context, information or background regarding this situation would certainly be of interest to Forbes readers. My deadline is 7pm EST. If you miss our deadline, I'll do my best to update the piece with your comments.

Hi Ron,

Good afternoon! Just looking for your confirmation that the information that the Commission displayed on this page was accurate as provided to your commission by the Office of Governor:

<https://apps.oregon.gov/OGEC/EFS/Records/GetUserProfile?filerID=698&reportType=Expenditures&filerType=Lobbyist%20Client>

It showed that for the last seven quarters, the governor filed official employer reports showing $0 spent on lobbying.

We are publishing a piece regarding this situation at Forbes. We plan on publishing yet today. There are material questions regarding the information that your commission displayed since April 1, 2016. Any comments and context would be helpful and of interest to our readers.
